YOUR MINISTRY MIX

One thing many in church leadership can agree on is that ministry is messy. People are in your church community that are at every stage of their Christian walks. Working camp into your ministry mix allows a time and place where each can come together on equal footing, in shared experiences, away from the ordinary and embrace the extraordinary opportunities afforded by getting away together.

WHY CAMP?

In ministry you often have to decide among varying opportunities, each vying for your attention and limited resources. You may feel like camp is just another thing pulling away from your core ministry, but you may instead be missing out on a tremendous opportunity for growth, bonding, and maturity at every level of church membership (youth, adult, and family alike).

THE CHALLENGE

We believe the challenge before many churches is determining how to continually glorify Christ in all that you do. This means not only how you interact on a church-wide level, but also in regard to programs, budgets, and individual relationships amongst you members. Churches may be struggling with engagement at Adult Bible Studies, Family Gatherings, and Youth Ministries. They may lack real community or be facing diminished maturity and growth.

Overview

Churches may be under attack, especially when they are moving forward for Christ, or indirectly and subtly as they see attrition and a lack of zeal or motivation for the ministry happening in your community. What would happen if all at once, all of your members became ministry-minded?

Purposeful Investment

Invest in your church's:

Marriages - Couple's Retreats

Families - Family Camps

Adults - Men's or Women's Retreats

Youth - Winter and Summer Youth Retreats

Evangelism

Take new or occasional church attendees and turn them into lifelong partners in your ministry. Church members can also invite friends and loved ones outside of your normal sphere of influence

Digging in Deeper

Work in purposeful time for your campers to think beyond the surface-level of their beliefs. At our Sponsored Camps we call this "So What" time. At your own retreat, work in discussions.

REAL OUTCOMES

Churches have shared that their time at camp has fostered and built community within their group, allowed for real and engaging conversations, and allowed their campers (adult and youth alike) the opportunity to be free from distractions they may be facing at home. If any of these outcomes sound appealing to what your church may need, we would love to see how we might be able to partner together this season. Why not try camp? You'll never know the full impact it may have until you've experienced it for yourself.
